

Company Bio

Quivering Dendrites is a new theater company, started by Vancouver Artist Keith Alessi, that will be debuting his one man show Tomatoes Tried To Kill Me But Banjos Saved My Life at the Toronto Fringe Festival July 2018.

Keith Alessi- Artist- Bio

This is Keith's first venture on the stage. He had a successful career as a corporate CEO, college professor, entrepreneur, and philanthropist.

Erika Conway- Producer- Bio

Erika is an actress of 25 years both on stage and in film. She wrote and produced her first fringe show at the Edmonton Fringe festival in 2016 and has recently filmed a lead role in a new Canadian Story Hive web-series "Necessary Evil" coming out this summer.

Ndola Hutton- Stage Manager- Bio

Ndola has been stage managing in Fringe's across Canada since 2011. She was awarded Best Stage Management in a musical at the Association of Community Theatres of Central Ontario Awards.