

A coming-of-age comedy of first times, second chances and third wheels

After an unfortunate (some would say ‘cursed’) run at the Toronto Fringe in 2013 that included not being in the program (due to being a late addition), and losing a performance (due to the great flood of 2013), Sam Mullins is THRILLED to be finally bringing back his Canadian-Comedy-Award-Winning solo show “Weaksauce” for another kick at the Toronto Fringe can.

Weaksauce is the story of the summer Sam turned 16 — and it was a real summer of firsts: First time away from home, first summer job, first love, first love triangle, first sexual experience, first fist fight with a primate... y’know. Regular becoming-a-man type stuff.

Sam Mullins is a two-time Canadian-Comedy-Award-winning writer and performer in Toronto. He writes comedy for the the CBC sketch program The Irrelevant Show. As a storyteller, he has contributed to This American Life, The Moth Radio Hour, Definitely Not the Opera and RISK! Podcast. His award-winning, critically-acclaimed one-man shows Tinfoil Dinosaur, Weaksauce, The Untitled Sam Mullins Project and Grandma’s Dead have sold out theatres all across North America.
