

Morro and Jasp: Save the Date

Does saying "I Do" to someone new mean saying "I Don't" to each other? Join beloved sisters Morro and Jasp as they say yes to the dress, try to handle the stress, and attempt to throw a big fat clown wedding without throwing up. The Dora and Canadian Comedy Award winning duo take on one of life's biggest juggernauts.

Having made it through a lot of trying times together, Morro and Jasp are closer than ever as sisters. At least that's what they think until a new challenge tests their relationship: Jasp is engaged!!! It all happened so fast and, despite some denial on Morro's part, it is indeed happening. While looking for the perfect wedding gown, and sampling ALL the possible cake options is loads of fun, the DIY projects start to get a bit too big and a bit too "Morro, can you just do it for me?". Before they know it, Morro and Jasp find themselves arguing about whether the bridesmaid's dress will outshine the bride, struggling to fit into SPANX, and learning about all the types of drama that a bachelorette party can present. Morro and Jasp's relationship is threatened in a whole new way, bringing up deep-seated fears of abandonment and forcing them to face the fact that, regardless of what happens next, things will change forever...

For better or worse, the sisters have to negotiate how and what their relationship will look like now that there is a third person in the mix. Can they even survive this new chapter of life without the person who has always been by their side? Can they still be Morro and Jasp?

You are cordially invited to the wedding of the year. No, not that one! The clown sisters plan to outshine Meghan Markle and her Prince Charming.