

2018: A SEX ODYSSEY

TORONTO
FRINGE FESTIVAL

Synopsis

Set in 2018, but a different, post-sex, post-Earth 2018, 2018: A Sex Odyssey examines our current lives within our social bubbles, reality TV, sex and relationships - alongside a backdrop of the Earth rapidly falling apart. It is not meant to be a critique but more an extrapolation of what it feels like to be living our (complicated, messy) lives in the pre-apocalyptic world that is 2018.

In order to achieve this, 2018: A Sex Odyssey re-imagines life in space, Big Brother style - focussing on sex, relationships and the interpersonal dramas of six twenty-somethings living together on a spaceship. It begins 3 months into a two year journey to populate the planet Mars, due to the near total destruction of planet Earth as a direct result of human caused climate change and the wars that ensued.

Still, no one really cares about climate change.

This will be a Netflix sitcom-style multi-media production with original soundtrack and projections.