Synopsis

Four bodies occupying one life. Four fractured pieces of a whole are gathered together in a purgatorial, nameless place. In non-linear, poetic text, the four voices explore their relationship to each other, and to the pain and love that brought them here. The voices describe their desires, remember losses in the past, and question their future in the face of their trauma. Their journey is an attempt to heal, to become whole, and to move out of their darkness.
