If I were the most powerful person in the world...

Power seems to be a popular topic of interest. In every headline, in every interaction, everyone seems to be obsessed with power and who should or shouldn't have it. That's what this show is. With 4 unique, artistic voices on the subject of power we're aiming to provide a performance that is broad, nuanced, dark, humorous darkly humorous, heart felt, and brutally honest.

Nullius in Verba is Rebel Yell's premier performance. Artistic directors Robyn Noftall and William Hamilton have teamed up with guest choreographer Mateo Galindo Torres to open the show with a piece of his own. As was mentioned previously, there are many people adding their voices and experiences to this work. This is very important for these particular pieces about this subject. With matters of identity, politics, culture and personal experience it didn't seem honest to approach the matter of power hierarchies from the point of view of just one person. Through this process we have had to discuss and share our very different experiences on an intensely personal level in order to create the art responsibly and as a result of this process we have all grown as people. What we are proud of creating is an entertaining show that not only do you not have to shut your brain off for but hopefully, you won't want to.

Artistic Directors Robyn Noftall and William Hamilton have both worked with many choreographers and directors throughout the city of Toronto and abroad. Mateo Galindo Torres is a well established choreographer and dancer in Toronto. He has performed his works throughout Canada and internationally. Dramaturge Victoria Fuller is the artistic director of Echo Productions.

For an entertaining, eclectic, and transformative hour of dance theatre with an affordable ticket price look no further than Rebel Yell's Nullius in Verba.
