

Synopsis

The Confidential Project was created to provide unbridled opportunities for artists. We promote inclusivity by maintaining the confidential aspect of our concept as much as humanly possible. Our casts are given their scripts and scores and asked to familiarize themselves with their roles - but not to reveal the show title or their role in it to anyone. With no rehearsals, the cast and crew meet for the first time one hour before the performance begins. The audience shows up with no knowledge of what show they're about to see.

The only rule: Don't stop. No matter what.
