

HerBeaver Troupe History

Herbeaver is an all-female sketch comedy troupe that was formed in 2017 by Heather Gallant, Mallory Morgan, and Katie Preston, but their friendship goes back to Ancient Times; the year 2010! These ladies met at the University of Windsor while obtaining their BFA's in acting, where they developed a life long friendship. They know that it will last a lifetime because they all got matching tattoos, so it's too late to back out now.

Part of what has made their friendship flourish is that these bad girls of comedy refuse to censor themselves both in private and in public, and they're not afraid to take that to the stage. Their feminist style of comedy has driven them to write mostly female, and often genderless characters, so even if you think women aren't funny, they'll still have something for you.

These ladies challenge themselves to keep the funnies flowing by producing a new hour of material every month as residents of Comedy Bar with their show Bush Party. As a result they now have a library of hundreds of sketches, characters, and songs to draw from. This is what makes them entirely unique as a troupe and confident that this is going to be a show for the books!

HERBEAVER TROUPE BIOS

MALLORY MORGAN is an actor/comedian originally hailing from Brighton, ON. Mallory is a graduate of the University of Windsor with a B.F.A. in Acting. Mallory noticed a knack for joke writing so she began dabbling in stand-up, training with Dawn Whitwell in Comedy Girl bootcamp. Her pursuit of comedy only strengthened when she realized she could successfully work with her friends! She collaborated with fellow “Beaver” Heather Gallant playing “Ben Affleck” in Matt & Ben (by Mindy Kaling & Brenda Withers) followed quickly by the forming of HerBeaver.

HEATHER GALLANT is an actor/comedian originally hailing from Calgary, AB. Heather is a graduate of the University of Windsor with a B.F.A. in Acting. Since moving to Toronto, she threw herself into comedy, training with the Second City and co-producing a production of Matt & Ben (by Mindy Kaling & Brenda Withers) at the Red Sandcastle Theatre playing “Matt Damon”. All of her goals seemed to then line up when HerBeaver began. You can also catch her chewing on meat or something in a commercial or two.

KATIE PRESTON is an actor/comedian originally hailing from Cornwall, ON. Katie is a graduate of University of Windsor’s B.F.A. in Acting program and has trained extensively in Improv at the Second City. While living in Toronto, Katie toured with children’s theatre but soon took control of her work and began delving into creating sketch comedy. Soon after, she joined up with her best friends to form HerBeaver. Katie is also a trained singer and uses her skills to make singing about private parts sound beautiful.
