

Chocolate Dollz Productions was founded in 2010 by award-winning playwright, showrunner, producer, author & actress, Sandy Daley. Her controversial first novel, "Whose Vagina Is It, Really?" has taken the world by storm. She's adapted the book into a play, which will be at the Toronto Fringe Festival, 2022. Chocolate Dollz Productions is a female-driven production company that produces quality films, television shows and stage plays. The company incorporates anti-oppressive practices, and diversity and inclusive strategies in every production.

Daley is also an advocate for social justice and women's rights, which permeates in her screenplays. She's the founder of the Whose Body Is It, Really? Empowerment Symposium. The symposium focuses on the prevention of sexual violence against women. She is also the founder of Mothers Against Violence Against Black Children: an organization that fights systemic racism against black children.
