Theatre's Pop Princess Makes Her Debut at Toronto Fringe

Toronto, ON — Glitter Pop Productions presents the world premiere of In Search Of..., a new play written and produced by Oprah Lemorin, debuting at the 2026 Toronto Fringe Festival. Starring Autumn Taylor, Bongani Musa, Han/nah Beatty, Miguel Gallego Meneses, and Oprah Lemorin. Tickets are now on sale.

Known as “Theatre’s Pop Princess,” Toronto-based playwright, actor, and producer Oprah Lemorin creates vibrant, comedic, and unapologetically theatrical work that blends pop culture, humour, and heartfelt storytelling. Through Glitter Pop Productions, Lemorin explores identity, power, and self-discovery through bold and imaginative new works.

Directed by Second City Main Stage Alum Coko Galore, In Search Of... features work by Intimacy Coordinator Christina Fox and 2026 Dora Sound Design Nominee Stephon Smith.

In Search Of... is a comedic, surrealist journey through girlhood, desire, and self-discovery. The play follows a young Black girl navigating her sexuality and discovering her own power. A chorus of boys shapes the world around her, guiding her journey from submission toward self-acceptance and empowerment. Blending fantasy, humour, and theatrical play, the piece examines how we are shaped by the expectations placed upon us — and what it takes to reclaim our voices.

“I’m thrilled to bring what I call pop theatre to the Toronto Fringe stage. In Search Of... represents the kind of contemporary theatre I believe audiences are ready for — work that is bold, playful, and deeply human.”

— Oprah Lemorin, Writer & Producer of In Search Of...
