

CRIMSON WAVE PRODUCTIONS is comprised of Jess Beaulieu and Natalie Norman, two comedians, producers and best friends who have been creating hilarious art together for 6 years in Toronto and across Canada.

They produce and host the hit weekly feminist stand-up comedy show CRIMSON WAVE COMEDY which runs every Sunday night at Comedy Bar and has been loved by audiences for almost 5 years running. Their show has been a featured act in JFL42, the Toronto Sketch Comedy Festival, the SheDot Festival, and musical festivals Field Trip and Sled Island among others.

They also previously produced and hosted the popular, critically acclaimed podcast THE CRIMSON WAVE which featured interviews from comedians, writers and activists about periods, sexuality, dating and gender identity. The podcast was chosen as one of the top ten best Toronto podcasts by BlogTO and also one of the most addictive Toronto podcasts by Toronto life.

EMOTIONAL LABOUR is their first endeavour into producing theatre and they are very excited to share their funny feminist perspectives through this new medium.
