

Foodie & Bobo

By Night Light Collective

TV and reality bleed together in Foodie & Bobo, a show about a brand new fictional sitcom, “Fran & Betty”, where two sisters can’t seem to live with or without each other. After some interference from their bestie, Xahvier, and some other kooky characters, their lives take a crazy turn. They are introduced to Max-A-Million, a restaurateur and social media icon, who offers the sisters the opportunity to work for his luxury restaurant, Million.

Fran, a self-proclaimed foodie, is eager to try out some expensive cooking tools, but doesn’t quite jam with Max’s menu vision.

Betty has a great handle of Max’s social media branding, but feels like a bit of a clown when Max asks her to represent the brand on social media.

The pressure mounts as Million’s brand new menu launch party approaches. All of Betty’s dreams seem to have come true, but her anxieties grow to be unignorable. Meanwhile, Fran is confronted by the parts of herself she would rather ignore, and that Betty loves to remind her of.

Will the sisters lose sight of what’s important? Or will they learn to manage the chaos of being overly-ambitious 20-somethings with no time or money to enjoy the beauty of life?