Toronto, ON — Nostalgia is hitting hard these days. Everyone fondly remembers the good old days when things were cheaper, media was authentic, and we had less distractions. We just went to school, hung out with friends, and watched cartoons all day. But maybe things aren't as we remember them... Back after their hit 2025 fringe show "This Show Will Change Your Life," $20 Sandwich is here and ready to ruin your childhood. Debuting at the 2026 Toronto Fringe Festival, this nostalgia-busting new show takes your fondest childhood memories and twists them to create a hilarious one-of-a-kind show you'll never forget. On stage at Factory Theatre's Studio from June 30th-July 12th, 2026.

Each night, one brave soul volunteers their childhood memories – no plants, no scripts, just one real person and their real story—ranging from their biggest embarrassments, learning about the birds and the bees, their most rebellious moments, and the things that made them who they are today. From there, comedians Brennan Asbridge, Antony Hall, Shaun Hunter, and Chase Jeffels take that story and spin it into pure Fringe gold: hilarious, heartfelt scenes, leaving you looking at your childhood in a whole new light.

Whether you're the one in the hot seat or just along for the ride, $20 Sandwich Ruins Your Childhood is what your inner child needs. It's unpredictable, unrepeatable, and unlike anything else you'll experience at this year's festival.

Praise for $20 Sandwich:

This show had me in (laughing) tears. $20 Sandwich was effortlessly funny – Ferron Delcy, Intermission Magazine

This troupe has chemistry in spades and it's apparent how well they trust each other when it comes to developing and presenting sketches on the go - exactly what you want from an improv troupe. – Samantha Wu, Broadway World

The cast has impeccable timing, no scene dragging too long or cutting off too quickly. – Riley Kelk, Parton & Pearl

So next time you see $20 Sandwich on a comedy club menu, dig in – Glenn Sumi, Parton & Pearl
