

STANDING ON THE MIRACULOUS FIELD

SYNOPSIS

The lemon tree is dying. Deborah insists Terra use her compost to revive the tree. Terra doesn't agree...

"Standing on the Miraculous Field" follows Nature Farmer and Storyteller Terra Norhiro Terazawa's day in his own garden. As he works in the garden, he looks back to when he revived a lemon tree and tells us the lessons he learned from practicing Nature Farming.

Nature Farming is a sustainable farming method which was invented in Japan. It was invented by Masanobu Fukuoka. Nature Farming is essentially a "do-nothing" farming method. For example, you work in the garden for 2-3 hours instead of the entire day, but it's so much more than that. This 'do-nothing farming' teaches us to regain the awareness of syncing with nature forces and the way to live in peace within ourselves and the world around us.

"In a real sense, people cannot understand nature completely.
Don't do anything unnecessary.
But that doesn't mean to let it be.
Nature is not sweet to a lazy peasant."

- Masanobu Fukuoka, the originator of Nature Farming.
