

DK Reinemer

BIO:

Born and raised by hippies in the Pacific Northwest , DK had no choice but to get into comedy. In 2004 he helped open the Upfront Theater with Ryan Stiles of “Whose Line is it Anyway?” In 2013 DK moved to Los Angeles and performed regularly on stages across the city, Upright Citizens Brigade, IO West, Second City, and The Pack Theater. DK has since headlined in cities across North America as a solo artist with his shows, “I’m This Many”, “Help! I’m American,” “The DK Effect”, and as one half of the sketch comedy duo, “The DK And Morgan Show”. “Becoming Magic Mike” is DK’s fourth solo comedy show.

DK recently started knitting and currently lives in Portland, Oregon.