

The Unhushed Theatre Collective was born out of the Vday Club at York University which strived for the club's 2021 production be a new play, rather than the usual production "The Vagina Monologues". Megan Legesse spearheaded this initiative and founded The Unhushed Theatre Collective as a space to further the company's new play "Swallow This Skin" outside of their work within the Vday club. The Unhushed Theatre Collective is a company centered on creating and producing work focused on the intersectional experiences of IBPOC women.
