

Pucker's

Established in 2025 by Steven Hao and Allison MacKenzie, Pucker's is a critically acclaimed, Dora nominated, artist-driven company dedicated to bold innovation in performance. Founded on the belief of "for artists, by artists," Pucker's fosters a collaborative environment where creativity is empowered across all disciplines. At its core, Pucker's is committed to forging deep human connections through curiosity, play, passion, and fearless exploration. Each project is designed to provoke, engage, and transform, leaving a lasting impact that lingers well beyond the final moment on-stage.

Parlous Theatre:

Founded in 2022 by Jacob Willis and Kendelle Parks, Parlous Theatre creates original work that lives at the intersection of theatre, performance art, and experimentation. Guided by the belief that uncertainty is where discovery happens, the company embraces risk, genre collision, and playful theatricality to create bold, immersive experiences.

Parlous (adjective, archaic): full of danger or uncertainty.