

Brief Plot Description

In this show, Ophira plays her body as a character working through her relationship with her mind, or 'Mindy'. She uses songs and stories to take the audience through their life, from birth, to theatre, to chronic pain; grappling with the meaning of self love, disability, and the nature of performance.